

Storefront Congregation

Storefront Congregation features four musicians who love all types of music. This inspires their writing of original material and unique arranging and performing of familiar songs. Friends having fun and the same creative team working diligently toward a common goal results in a dynamic musical experience for the listener.

Storefront has garnered great reviews of their first CD and the second CD is "hot off the presses" as of August 2011. No strangers to the print, television and radio media, Storefront band members have been recognized for their individual musical talents for decades and have backgrounds in orchestra, jazz, country, blues and, of course, bluegrass.

Booking

Murrell Thixton
(859) 979-0363

www.storefrontband.com
storefrontcongregation@gmail.com

Storefront Congregation is:

Kent Houchin on Guitar and Vocals
Nathan Livers on Mandolin and Vocals
Murrell Thixton on Banjo, Guitar, & Vocals
Lauren White on Bass and Vocals

"...they show promise, deliver on the promise, and make further promises ...fine, quality work ...well-crafted band originals and well-chosen covers ...a band on the edge of bigger things."

- Bluegrass Unlimited

"A well conceived and beautifully executed album of contemporary Bluegrass by this band from Louisville, KY ...The choice of material, sequencing, and arrangements are all superior—dynamic, yet subtle and tasteful."

- County Sales

"...so full of high points that it would require a surveyor's transit and crew to measure them all."

- Louisville Music News